

SEEING AMERICA

Here it seems not out of place to remark along the line of the various transportation methods in existence. The distant traveler is usually misinformed, so that tourists on entering the Park are of the opinion that but one or two ways are at hand by which they may be led through. Many, easterners especially, secure their tickets in Chicago en route. It is only upon entering Livingston that they are brought face to face with competing concerns no less than five in number, and life is the competition. Following is a brief discussion of the companies and their merits with approximate rates charged by each for a tour of one person through the park with twenty-five pounds of baggage additional: The Transportation Company appears in sight with four to six spry horses hitched to a Concord Coach. The beauty is an attraction and advertisement. Those who go with this company are charged a fare of $55 and receive elaborate hotel accommodation at various hotels along the way at the end of each day's journey. This concern pays an annual rental of $1,126 for the leases it has made within the park of about twenty-eight acres, which is a part of its expense account. The Yellowstone Park Hotel Company, which is said to own the hotels (eight including the lunch stations), have also leased sites that cover an acreage of about twenty-nine acres, for which they pay an annual rental of $585. These two companies evidently cooperate and act as one. I am sorry I do not have at our command the number of wagons and horses this company uses; but the fact that it carried 5,590 persons through the park in the year 1911, in the short season, June the 15th to September 10th, which is the regular season and only season, bears evidence that their equipment must be heavy. All the teams travel on a schedule. The first man out of camp in the morning is supposed to be the first man in camp at noon and evening. There is little or no driving about one another on the tour. However anxious and enthusiastic a seatmate on the foregoing coach may be, that coach dare not stop, for to do so would be calling a halt along the line. The driver of these teams is not a guide. He is seated high and in front. His service is of little value from an information viewpoint. Thus the reader sees two disadvantages in traveling with this company, however elaborate may be the service at the hotels.

The Monida & Yellowstone Stage Company enter via the western entrance; the latter fact removes a certain amount of the competition immediate at Livingston, though as a whole, it draws much custom, as is shown by the fact that out of a total of 23,000 visitors in 1911, this company escorted 5,659 in their conveyances. This company's management is similar to the foregoing.

The Wylie Permanent Camping Company operate along a more moderate line. Covered Surrays and Concord Coaches give way to covered vehicles of a lower type, of which they had ninety-eight in number. Their lodging consists of permanent tents in groups located in certain spots along the way, where each succeeding party stops for the night or for lunch. Their annual rental is based upon the number of wagons, being $980 or $10 per wagon per season. It was neglected to state that the Monida Company pay an annual rental of $440. The Wylie Company charge $40 to $45 for their service, with extra charges as is also the case with the other companies mentioned, for all side trips to special spots of interest. The greater the distance from the beaten path the greater the extra charge. These people carried 5,000 passengers during the same year to which I referred.

Surely, you will come face to face real quickly at Livingston, with a representative of the Shaw & Powell concern. They charge $30 as fare, for the five and one-half days' regular beat, and possess but one permanent camp, the others being movable.

The Old Faithful Camping Company are next in order, but not last. Their wagons carry five passengers and their driver is a guide, who explains matters without end as the team moves along, making the tour a recreation and a lecture combined. There are no permanent camps, but each camp is pitched for the night at some spot of special interest either selected by the driver or the party, who are given voice in the selection. The drivers of these wagons are not scheduled, and stop quite frequently to explain more thoroughly or let the tourist dismount for a refreshing drink of spring water, or to scold the fingers of the doubting Thomas who does not believe the pool of steaming water is actually hot. Here again is comfort in every particular. All side trips are free of extra charge. This company operated an equipment which cost $20,000, in the past year, which included 46 horses.

One more, the Roseborough Brothers, operate on similar plan. Their rates are similar. They are younger than the Old Faithful, but are making progress.

After prying into the merits of all the concerns, and feeling as though we would get more good out of a typical camp in the open air style, a chance to fish along the way while the driver looked on, and an equal opportunity to take all the photographs we cared to, the wagon halting for the purpose, we selected the Old Faithful method and were never sorry as we received royal treatment, good food, many side trips, leisure time to look at the things of most interest and a dozen other advantages that may crop out here and there as we proceed on the trail.

But why all this preliminary? It seems difficult indeed to get away from the little Gardiner, a supply town for the miners. We did leave that same day at 1:30 p.m., when the heat was oppressive, but after enrolling with the government official, a short time intervened until the heat decreased. Gardiner Creek came "tearing" toward us at a rapid rate, its crystal waters forming spray that sparkled in the sunshine. Our altitude was 5,333 feet, and the ascen-

TO BREAK UP COLD

Some Advice That Will Save Time and Money.

Strong drink and quinine may relieve a cold, but it usually does more harm than good.

To break up a hard cold in either head or chest thousands are using this sensible treatment.

First of all look after your bowels; if they need attention use any reliable cathartic. Then pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for 5 or 10 minutes the pleasant, soothing, healing vapor.

Do this just before going to bed; your head will feel fine and clear and you'll awake from a refreshing sleep minus a cold in the morning.

For colds, coughs, catarrh, asthma and croup HYOMEI is guaranteed. A fifty cent bottle is all you need to break up a cold and this can be obtained at F. W. Jordan's and drug-gists everywhere.

ing slope 200 feet to the mile. Yellow cactus blossoms bordered the road as an introduction to the flora while a Bald Eagle's nest introduced the bird life. Then we looked back over the path and were surprised to see what a change in the landscape compared to what we had seen from the opposite direction. How large the areas and mountains before and around us. Then came the story that within recent years a hunter had been lost for twenty-seven days in those hills, subsisting upon strawberries and grasshoppers during his loneliness. The sky was clear, with the exception of clumps of cumulous clouds that only added to the effect as they hung over the summit of Electric Peak, snow covered and looming upward over 11,000 feet.

The roads were in splendid condition, solid, and kept moist by the twenty sprinkler wagons that daily made their beat over 95 miles of the road. Two miles from the entrance we came upon a break down. Our tent and mess wagon ahead had broken down, and the "chief," equal to the emergency, was seen on the gallop coming down the road on his horse unbridled, "making for" Gardiner for new equipment. In one and one-half hours he was seen coming up the hill with his one horse hitched to heavy wagon moving along at no mean rate. He had covered the four miles in the given time. We had a horseman in our party, all were ready to admit.

Boiling hot springs were seen to the left and the new and old hospitals to the right. The beautiful green lawns were a welcome as our team approached the home of the Superintendent of the Park. The Acting Superintendent, L. M. Brett, a Lieutenant-Colonel of the 1st Cavalry, has general control of the protection of the animals in the park, the formations and the roads; under whom is one squadron (four troops) of U. S. Cavalry and a machine gun platoon, in addition to hospital corps detachment, making a total of 380 officers and enlisted men, who are stationed at Ft. Yellowstone. There are 15 sub-stations at points throughout the park that are supplied with ten men each in summer and five men each in winter, all of which are included in the number named above, as they are taken from the garrison at the fort. In summer their duties are to protect the formations, patrol the roads and camps and look out for forest fires. In winter, patrolling is done to protect the game of the park from poachers, and is done on Norwegian skis, as there is too much snow for travel by any other method.

The sulphurous rifts were wafted by the breeze, and my partner exclaimed, "Oh, there are the Mammoth Hot Springs, can it be possible!" and the next second saw him running toward them eager to make their acquaintance, while the wagon was taken to the rear. What a grand sight indeed! 170 acres covered with terraces high and low and bearing colors so bright, snowy white to brown, and delicate pinks. Thirteen terraces in all and kept moist with fifty active springs. The wonderful transparency of the water surpassed anything yet seen. The sky with the smallest cloud was reflected in their limpid depths. One could look down into the clear depths and see with perfect distinctness the minutest ornament on the inner sides of the basins. The exquisite beauty of the coloring truly baffled any attempt to portray with the pen. With the evaporation, a spongy mass remained like snow white coral. But even though we had not reached evening, we must end here to begin with the entrance of the Devil's Kitchen for the next article

H. E. Creep, 59 No. 18th St., Harrisburg, Pa., says, "Some time ago I had occasion to use Foley Kidney Pills for my kidneys which were unhealthy and very irregular in action. Now after taking Foley Kidney Pills for a short time only, I have no pains whatever and the kidneys are acting properly and regularly. This was brought about by the use of Foley Kidney Pills which I heartily recommend." Ed. D. Heckerman.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Bedford People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Bedford who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by willing testimony of Bedford people. Here's a case:

William Easter, 113 W. Penn St., Bedford, Pa., says: "I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills, for they were of greater benefit to me than any other kidney medicine I used. Two years ago I had a severe attack of lumbago and my back became so lame that I could hardly get around. My kidneys were sluggish and the secretions were unnatural. Doan's Kidney Pills acted promptly in removing the pain and lameness and before long the kidney difficulty was corrected. I have had no trouble from my back or kidneys since then and can therefore say that Doan's Kidney Pills brought me permanent relief. They are worthy of all the praise I have given them."

UNIQUE SOCIAL

Ostrich-Egg Omelet Served by Hon. and Mrs. George W. Oster.

Easter Monday evening Hon. and Mrs. George W. Oster entertained a number of friends who are stockholders of the African Ostrich Farm and Feather Company, at an ostrich omelet social at their home near Osterburg.

The egg was the second one laid by Queen Delsina at the farm at Bloomsburg, the bird having the distinction of being the youngest laying pullet on record. Her first egg was laid on St. Patrick's Day. The second egg was laid on Sunday, March 31, and was supposed not to be fertile, but upon opening it was found to be fertile. The egg weighed three pounds, which is equal to two dozen chicken eggs. The contents of the egg filled a large sized sause dish.

Thirty-one stockholders partook of the delicate repast and all present declared it to have a more delicious flavor than an omelet made from chicken eggs. The shell of the egg was divided among those present as souvenirs of the occasion. The evening was enjoyed by those present, among whom were: George Z. Replogle and John L. Longenecker, of Woodbury; H. B. Hull and C. L. King, of New Enterprise; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Roudabush, J. W. Imler and Miss Fannie Kaufman, of Imler; Rev. J. H. Zinn, Rev. J. W. Zehring and wife, John M. Walter and wife, George O. Ake, John F. Ake, George Berkheimer, Mrs. A. S. Otto, Frank Otto, Mrs. E. L. McCleary and S. G. Kauffman, of Osterburg, and Ross Slonaker of St. Clairsville.

moved, although the water was up to the floor of the second story. Her daughter was caring for her. The mother plead with the daughter to flee and save herself. Tales of hairbreadth escapes are told by the rivermen, who listened to the stories of the refugees, which are quite interesting.

The boats have brought to Memphis persons taken from the roofs of houses and limbs of trees, who had been clinging to life with much tenacity. No one knows anything of this until he gets caught like Dad at West Hickman, Ky., where I roosted for four hours in the forks of a big sycamore tree. I was at work shoveling sand into bags, when all at once, the water was upon us with terrific force, and to have attempted to cross the street through this running water, meant sure death. It may be laughable to read about it, but to get caught thus and have a tree just by you, is a blessing I assure you all. I climbed up the tree, as did several others, and we stayed there until it was light and a boat could get to our place of refuge.

Orders to boil all drinking and cooking water have just been given out and are being carried out as the contamination with the sewage is great. All dread typhoid fever. The higher parts of the city are being crowded with refugees. I could tell you many amusing stories of things I have seen here among those who have been driven into the city. The merchants are all blue and talk as if there never would be any business.

Good Friday was well observed here. The banks were closed, as well as most public institutions. Services in the churches commemorated the crucifixion of Christ. 'Twas a day of sorrow in all the churches. The ceremony of kissing the cross was carried out in all the Catholic Churches. Peter used to tell me that this was an old custom of their faith. The ceremony of many women and children all kneeling at the altar and kissing the crucifix is very solemn. The season of prayer and penitential sack cloth and ashes has passed. So has Easter, the feast of joy and happiness. Whilst the devil now boasts that he soon will have "Us and Company" in his grasp again, let us watch that he does not.

Since writing you, I had the pleasure of meeting Prof. Stunkard and his estimable wife. They were attending an educational meeting in Nashville. Both looked well. Gee, how glad I was to see that big, stalwart man and grasp that hand once again. They look as if the South agreed with them and now that I know exactly where they live, I'll go and get a square meal some time for his wife comes from the section where they know how to prepare good meals. May joy be theirs.

Yours truly,
M. P. Heckerman.

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabouraud, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently help to restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by aiding in making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

We exact no obligations or promises--we simply ask you to give Rexall "93" Hair Tonic a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain it in Bedford only at our store--The Hexall Store. F. W. Jordan.

Greevey of the same place who is also a candidate for the same office, do hereby agree to pay the said Dr. Americus Enfield the sum of One hundred and twenty five dollars, for withdrawing his name and also permit him to name all the appointments to be made by the National Government should the Democratic party prevail at the next General Election for President in November 1912, and should Dr. Americus Enfield be a candidate for any National Office Thomas H. Greevey and myself are to endorse and urge his appointment as against any other person who may be candidate from this Congressional district.

by authority in writing from —

The above is a facsimile of the paper prepared and written by Dr. Americus Enfield, and handed by him to me to sign, on April 1st, 1912. The interlineation of the words "by authority of the friends of" and "to cover expenses already incurred" were inserted by me with Doctor Enfield's consent. The crossing out of the words "And also permit him to name all the important appointments to be made by the National Government should" was done by Dr. Enfield, as I would not agree to such absurd conditions. We could not agree upon other objectionable features and I refused to sign the paper. This document written by himself shows conclusively that Dr. Enfield wanted $125 in cash and the promise of support for a Federal appointment as consideration for his withdrawal, although his original demand was $500. The repeated denials of the existence of this paper in his hand-writing, made by Dr. Enfield and his challenges to produce it, have caused this publication.

Maxwell "Mercury" Roadster

Guaranteed to do a Mile-a-Minute

$1150 30-35 H.P.

MAXWELL "MERCURY" 30-35 H. P. $1150.

Absolutely in a class by itself. $3,000 will not by a more stylish or better Roadster

Surpassing Style

Every appointment that makes for comfort and convenience has been incorporated in this handsome car. Nothing has been spared to make the Maxwell "Mercury" the finest car of its type. For instance: there are long wheel-base, large tires, demountable rims and large flexible springs.

The cushions are eight and a half inches deep, and tilted to prevent riding fatigue. First-class curled hair and resilient spiral springs only are used. There is plenty of leg room. All of these attributes mean comfort. Ideal car for ladies to drive. Simple and easily understood.

For Touring Then there is the commodious luggage trunk with ample room for suit cases, and other trappings; and the large tank holding 15.5 gallons gasoline, five gallons oil; and an extra rim and tire holder. Provided with every necessity the "Mercury" is an ideal car for touring.

Selling Fast The extraordinary price of the "Mercury" is one of the sensations of the season. Those who contemplate being among the fortunate owners of this car should enter immediate orders, because, as this paper goes to press, the supply of Maxwell "Mercuries" is fast diminishing, and, when exhausted, no more can be made this season.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

MUST FOLLOW DIRECTIONS.

By Martha McCulloch Williams. "Be sure you are right—then go ahead," said Davy Crockett, the backwoods sage. The saying has no more pertinent application than to the wonder-working of paper bags cookery. Being sure you are right, you can go ahead to admiration. If you are right, you will have none but good words for the process. Otherwise—other words.

Paper bag cookery saves trouble, expense, and time, makes better returns in flavor and substance, and is a sworn foe to dyspepsia. Hence, it is a dispenser of sweetness and light. Whatever helps the great mass to easier and better living is a distinct gain for humanity. Any woman of average intelligence can learn in half an hour, if she pays attention, the essential rudiments of using this system. After that, use will teach the fine points far better than any lecturer or demonstrator could do it.

But it will not do to half-hear or half-remember. If you are a novice, or even a prospective paper bag cook, read over and over the paper bag commandments before beginning, and read them again the next day, and the next, and still the next. They are not perfunctory but vital. Also, in following out recipes given, stick to your text.

Baked Apple Sauce.—Peel and core six firm apples of good flavor, tart rather than sweet. Stick three cloves in each and put bits of mace and cinnamon in the core-spaces. Put them in a well-buttered bag with two heaping cups of sugar and half a tumbler of water. Cook thirty minutes. Have the oven very hot at first, but slack heat after seven minutes. Lemon juice instead of water makes a richer-flavored sauce. In that case add half a cup more sugar at the outset.

Apple Pudding.—Beat three fresh eggs very light, add two cups sugar, half a cup creamed butter, the strained juice of a lemon, and the grated yellow peel, a very little salt, half a teaspoonful of powdered cornstarch, a pint of raw grated apple and half a pint of rich milk. Beat hard for several minutes, then pour into a well-buttered bag and bake for thirty minutes in a hot oven. Leave room for the pudding to rise in sealing the bag. Cook on a trivet set upon the grid-shelf. Serve with hard sauce or wine sauce as preferred. This if eaten hot. If eaten cold, whipped cream is the thing for it.

Sweet Potato Pudding.—Make a batter as for apple pudding. Use a cup more sugar, else only half a pint of grated raw sweet potato. Sweet potatoes take as much sugar as crab apples to make them taste sweet.

The creamer the milk the better—unless it is creamy increase the proportion of butter. Cook in a well-buttered bag—fifty minutes will not be too long for it. Make a peep-hole in the upper bag—unless the pudding is browned and firm, cook it a while longer.

Banana Pudding.—Beat three eggs light, saving out one white. Add a generous cup of sugar, a cup of stale cake, crumbled fine, half a cup of creamed butter, a cup of milk, beat all together, then add two large or three small bananas, sliced thin, the juice of half a lemon and a teaspoonful of lemon extract. Bake in a very well-buttered bag for thirty minutes. Take out, cover with meringue, strew a little sliced candied peel over the meringue, set in the oven to harden, then serve hot with wine or lemon sauce.

GOOD THINGS IF CHEAP.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Fillet of Beef a la Miranda.—Take a pound and a half of rump steak and cut it into neat slices, about an eighth of an inch thick and two and a half inches long and broad. Dust each of these lightly with black pepper; melt an ounce of butter and skim it free from froth, and add to it as much finely minced garlic as will lie on the point of a very small knife. Lay the fillets in this and let them steep for an hour, turning frequently (the dish must stand in a warm place, or the butter will set). Then take out, put in a well-buttered bag, and place on broiler in the oven, leaving it to cook for half an hour. Meanwhile knead an ounce of flour with an ounce of butter, add to it to degree a pint of strong well-flavored stock, place in a clean saucepan, and stir all one way until it is the consistency of cream; then add half a pound of previously cooked mushrooms, the juice of half a lemon, freed from seeds, a teaspoonful of China soy, and two drops anchovy essence. Make very hot. Pile the mushrooms in the middle of a hot dish, arrange the fillets around it and garnish with a wall of mashed potato. Serve at once.

Irish Stew.—Cut up two or three pounds of mutton in the ordinary way. Leave very little fat. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add six large onions, peeled and finely chopped, and two pounds of peeled and thinly sliced potatoes and a bunch of sweet herbs. Place in bag and add half a tumbler of cold water. Place on broiler in hot oven. Allow forty minutes.

Tonic— Alterative

What is a "tonic"? A medicine that increases the strength or the tone of the whole system. What is an "alterative"? A medicine that alters or changes unhealthy action to healthy action. Name the best "tonic and alterative"? Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the only Sarsaparilla entirely free from alcohol. Ask your doctor about it.

Bilious attacks, sick-headaches, indigestion, constipation, dizzy spells—these are some of the results of an inactive liver. Ask your doctor if he endorses Ayer's Pills in these cases. The dose is small, one pill at bedtime. Made by the J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

LABOUCHERE'S COPY.

After It Was Finished He Lost All Interest in Its Fate.

It was a matter of absolute indifference to Labouchere what became of anything he wrote after he had written it. When he had corrected the proof or if he was away from England when he sent his copy to the post he took no further interest in it whatever.

Before I had discovered this trait in his character I used to write and apologize for cutting, perhaps six columns down to two, or sometimes offer an excuse for not using any of it at all. At last he wrote to me: "You need not sentimentalize about my stuff. I send it to you to do what you like with."

But one felt a lingering compunction long afterward about consigning the fruits of so much labor to the waste paper basket, and, after all, Labouchere was the proprietor of the paper. Once or twice, therefore, I have excused myself for "not sentimentalizing" about some article that he had sent.

One such occasion he writes: "Dear —: I am the only person, I believe, on the press who does not care in the least whether his lucubrations do or do not appear in print. It has always appeared to me that the making of an art (article) requires two persons, one to write it, the other to cut it down, and generally to cut out what the first man most admires"—London Truth.

Wanted His Money Back.

A young man had taken his wife to a show, and as there was no one to look after the baby they had brought it along. It cried lustily all through the first act. At the close of the act an usher came down the aisle and informed them that if they could not keep the baby quiet they would have to go to the box office, get their money back and go out.

They succeeded in quieting the baby, and all went well for a time. Then, five minutes after the last act had commenced, the young father leaned over and said, "How do you like the show?"

"Rotten!" was the reply.

He was silent for a moment, and then, leaning over again, he whispered:

"Stick a pin in the baby."—Everybody's.

When Andrew Carnegie was a mere lad in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad he with the other boys of the old First Ward, Allegheny, Pa., now the north side, Pittsburgh, had for many years the use of the private library of a Major Anderson. Mr. Carnegie, while speaking at the installation of his libraries, often said that much of his success was due to the influence of the books obtained in this library and that when he became wealthy the building of the Allegheny free library was one of his first acts.—New York Sun.

Lesson II.—Second Quarter, For April 14, 1912.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Mark ii, 23 to iii, 6—Memory Verses, 27, 28—Golden Text, Mark ii, 27—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The record of today's lesson, two Sabbath day incidents, the disciples plucking corn and a withered hand restored in the synagogue, is found in Matt. xii and Luke vi, as well as in Mark, so that it must concern Him not only as the Jewish King rejected, but also as the perfect servant, and as the Son of Man, to whom all things will yet be subdued. To understand Him and His words and works we must consider Him as Nathaniel spoke of Him, "the Son of God, the King of Israel" (John i, 49), as "the King of the Jews" whom the wise men sought (Matt. ii, 2), and as the "Wonderful Counselor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace, who will yet sit upon the throne of David and whose kingdom shall know no end" (Isa. ix, 6, 7; Luke i, 32, 33). The late Dr. Weston in his "Genesis of the New Testament" says that the Jewish Sabbath was the one peculiar and distinctive ordinance of the nation. Other nations practiced circumcision and had temples, offered sacrifices and performed religious rites, but the Sabbath was the Jewish national flag. In it they claimed a peculiar relation to God as their Creator, Redeemer and Rest, and, if by this man's treatment of their Sabbath they are to be deprived of their distinction from other nations, what is the use of being God's people? Considering this, it is not so surprising that the immediate occasion of the determination by the Jewish rulers to put Christ to death, as stated in all the gospels, was His relation to the Sabbath. He claimed to be greater than Solomon or the temple or the Sabbath (Matt. xii, 6, 8, 42), but they would not so receive Him. They honored Him with their lips, but their heart was far from Him (Isa. xxix, 12, Ezek. xxxii, 31; Matt. xv, 7, 8). They had a form of worship without any power. Jehovah, whom they professed to worship, was in their midst, and they knew Him not.

Matthew says that as the disciples passed through the cornfields they were hungry, and Luke says that they rubbed the ears of corn in their hands and did eat. Our Lord Himself was an hungered on other occasions, as recorded in Matt. iv, 2; xxi, 18. Concerning Israel it is written that He suffered them to hunger (Deut. viii, 3), but it was to prove them and teach them. The wicked are ever watching the righteous and seeking to slay them (Ps. xxxviii, 32), and here they are finding fault and condemning the disciples, and the Lord, too, because they knew Him not, nor the Scriptures, which they professed to reverence. He referred them to their own Scriptures, saying, "Have ye never read what David did when he had need and was an hungered?" (Verse 25) There is no word of condemnation here for David and his followers. He came not to condemn, but to show mercy, hence His quotation from the prophets in Matthew's record, "I will have mercy and not sacrifice" (Matt. xii, 7; Hos. vi, 6). The rest of the verse in Hosea says that the knowledge of God is better than burnt offering. The primary idea in sacrifice is that God gives to us, not that we give to Him, for in the first sacrifice the Lord gave to Adam and Eve redemptive clothing which He Himself provided, a foreshadowing of Christ laying the church and giving Himself for it purchasing it with His own blood. We cannot give anything to God unless we offer Him acceptable service until we have received mercy from Him as the One who saves sinners. Before even sin entered this world God set apart one day in seven as a time when man might be free from all work and give himself up wholly to becoming acquainted with God, for there is nothing that can compare with knowing God (Jer. ix, 23, 24). The Lord of the Sabbath gave to man in His own way a day on which He might specially bless him by the revelation of Himself as the source of all being and blessing and life and love and peace. The man in the synagogue with the withered hand was strongly suggestive of the condition of the nation and of their inability to do anything for God until they would accept His mercy. In the record, in Matt. xii, 11, 12, He uses the illustration of the necessity of rescuing a sheep from a pit, even on the Sabbath day, but He speaks of the owner of the sheep doing this, saying, "What man shall have one sheep, not see a sheep? He loved these wayward sheep. He came to give them life. He was as ready to heal them as He was to restore that withered hand, but they would not let Him, and the hardness (or blindness) of their hearts was a grief to Him. Note the cry from His heart concerning them, "We would not." "We will not." "If thou hadst known" (Matt. xxiii, 37; xxii, 3; John v, 40; Luke xix, 41, 42). Instead of having anything like a penitent spirit, a conviction of sin, their proud hearts so rebelled against Him and His teaching that they went away and took counsel, how they might kill Him. For His love they gave Him hatred, they knew Him not, they would not have such a one as their Messiah, but the time will come when they shall say, "Our God."

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secret of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that nearly eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ford Touring Car $690

75000 Ford cars are to be built for 1912.

The world-wide demand for the Ford, based on merit alone, compells that production.

The lightest weight 4-cylinder car in the world; size, power and capacity considered; 60 pounds to every horse-power. Bedford, Pa., April 10. The lithographed letter or paper appearing in to-day's Altoona Times, it will be observed is dated April 1, four days after Fisher solicited me to come to Altoona ostensibly on some important business matter, which he refused to divulge over the phone, when requested to do so by me. The effort on the part of Fisher to make it appear that I was the moving party in this nefarious transaction is laborious and unsubstantiated by any fact or circumstance in the case and that statement, as well as his statement that I demanded $500 or $200, is based on his own uncorroborated word and emanates from a wicked brain.

This lithographed paper is a duplicate of one prepared by my attorney, Alvin L. Little, the original of which is in my possession, and was designed to connect in writing Thomas H. Greevy and his friends with the transaction, so that there could be no evasion or denial of the transaction or the nature thereof, my purpose being to bring to punishment the men who would so basely undertake to violate the law.

It is important to observe that the lithographed copy is not signed by me as Fisher has repeatedly stated it was, and that the paper itself shows that it was never intended to be signed by me, but as is apparent from reading the same, it was to be signed Andrew S. Fisher, who designates himself in the body of the paper as the "Agent for Thomas H. Greevy and his friends." The interlineations in the paper that Fisher admits making in his own writing, show that he intended to sign the paper as does also the body of the paper. He also wanted to put in the blank spaces at the end of the paper the names of Thomas H. Greevy and his friends, as the blank spaces show.

An exact copy of this lithographed paper was given to the Harrisburg Patriot and the Johnstown Democrat with my original statement, which was backed up by the affidavits of three as good men as the district at
